

WEEKEND EDITION SATURDAY

Heavy Rotation: 10 Songs Public Radio Can't Stop Playing

Hear new music from Valerie June, Yussef Kamaal, and Gabriel Garzon-Montano in this month's mix of public radio favorites.

SEE THE LIST

Migos Rapped A Children's Book. It's Funny, But It Makes Perfect Sense

by Daoud Tyler-Ameen

The three MCs behind the current No. 1 song in the country have a knack for finding the sensuous contours of the English language – a trait they share with the author of Llama Llama Red Pajama.

Migos Rapped A Children's Book. It's Funny, But It Makes Perfect Sense

by Daoud Tyler-Ameen

The three MCs behind the current No. 1 song in the country have a knack for finding the sensuous contours of the English language – a trait they share with the author of Llama Llama Red Pajama.

SONGS WE LOVE

handpicked by npr music staff and public radio hosts

Dear Eloise Something Beautiful to Share

Naomi Yang filmed part of Dear Eloise's "Something Beautiful To Share" video during a Harvard/Yale football game.

PICKED BY
LARS GOTRICH

The Dove & The Wolf Seven Days

WXPN

In an empty warehouse, a dancer improvises to a shimmering song about the Bataclan attacks.

PICKED BY BRUCE WARREN

Nnamdi Ogbonnaya, dOn't turn me Off

Mal Devisa and JD AKA Thraskitten join Ogbonnaya for a positive, extraterrestrial jam.

PICKED BY
JENNY GATHRIGHT