

Spring 2016 Comment Report

JOHN HOMER

Course Sections

A CS 130 (01): Programming II: Data Struct

B CS 365 (01): Theory of Computation

Comments -

- A
- Give more attempts at assignments that the students can't test locally.
 - The daily and extra quizzes were very good practice in learning to read other people's code. I felt I didn't enough practice in this area previously. It is different when writing my own code because I already knew what the code was doing and how it was doing it.
 - Dr. Homer, this was an amazing class, and I'm extremely appreciative of the hard work and dedication you put into each of your classes. I know you were looking for our opinions on the daily quiz system, and I honestly think that they went well. Besides the days when there were technical difficulties, I think that taking quizzes during every class allowed us to know whether we actually knew the material or not. It tested us where we were in the course and truly forced us to see if we were where we should be. I also think that the extra quizzes were nice too, because in a way it helps display those who were dedicated in the class. Knowing that there was always more I could do inspired me to work harder.
 - Dr. Homer is much better at explaining things than every other professor I've ever had. He truly cares about us learning the material as opposed to most other professors just "going through the motions". We are given 1-2 weeks to do every assignment which really helps when you have other courses which give only 1-2 days to finish most assignments. People who do badly in this course only do so in my opinion because they don't use their free time wisely, and end up waiting until the last 1-2 days to do the assignments, which causes them to feel overloaded or like the coursework is too difficult.

What specific actions and attitudes did you notice from your instructor that demonstrated his/her Christ-like character and conduct? -

- A
- He exemplifies Jesus and the works of creation.
 - He's humble, helpful, forgiving, very honest and supportive.
 - Dr. Homer has a very large amount of patience, and wisdom. He was always willing to offer advice and really takes the time to get to know those who are in his class. He also works hard and is definitely a role model for a large percentage of people.