Course evaluations are a good tool you can use to adapt your course and teaching styles and methods to be as effective as possible in future classes. They're also an important element of your annual evaluations and tenure and promotion processes. We encourage you to save each report each semester for your reference.

Uploading the reports in your Scheduled Teaching listings in Activity Insight can be a good place to keep track of them.

If you have technical problems accessing a report, please contact Educational Technology at courseeval@acu.edu. If you would like help interpreting your results or looking for teaching techniques to respond to this feedback, please contact Cliff Barbarick, the director of faculty development in the Adams Center, at cab11c@acu.edu.

What did the instructor do that made the course effective? Be specific (for example: particular assignments, discussions, presentations, etc.).

Comments
I think the open learning environment is useful and beneficial, having students chime in with what they are thinking and attempting to justify that is a good idea.

What could the instructor do to improve the effectiveness of this course? Be specific.

Comments
I really don't think reading at times verbatim from a PowerPoint is a good idea. It's an interesting situation when I would get docked point if I did that on a presentation. Just a recommendation, it makes it less engaging to me because I can read the words on the screen fine. It's what they mean or what lies just beyond is what I'm wanting.
