¹ Councils may request additional information about “Information” items. These items are approved as “Consent Agenda.”

² The Dean and Department should respond to the Provost’s recommendation to close a program in writing. Advise & Respond (R) requires that the voting body should receive the written responses at least one week prior to the vote.

³ All courses that meet University Requirements for general education must go through UGEC. Courses or degrees offered only to students seeking teacher certification must go through the Teacher Education Council. All undergraduate changes must go before the UUAC. All graduate degree plan changes must go through the Graduate Council.

⁴ A minimum of 30 hours is required for a major. A maximum is specified for each degree (e.g., BA, BS). The university minimum for elective hours is 6, unless the requirements of external accrediting bodies make it impossible.

⁵ Program or course changes that apply to any major that includes Teacher Certification will be reviewed by the college, the Teacher Education Council (TEC), and then the UUAC.

⁶ Courses that satisfy ACU’s University Requirements (General Education) will normally have lower-level numbering, be free of prerequisites and co-requisites, appeal to more than one or two majors, and “not narrowly focus on those skills, techniques, and procedures specific to a particular occupation or profession” (SACS 2.7.3). Departments may request exceptions to the first three criteria.

⁷ The UUAC approved the clarification that “general requirements for graduation” means the enumerated items in the “General Requirements for Bachelor’s Degrees” section of the catalog.

Application for Social and Behavioral Science Menu

Guidelines For All General Education Courses

1. All general education courses must be 100-level or above.
2. General education courses should present a breadth of knowledge, not focusing on skills, techniques, and procedures specific to a particular occupation or profession.
3. Individual courses will fulfill only a single general education requirement.
4. Courses free of prerequisites are preferred. Applications to add courses with prerequisites must provide additional evidence that the course contributes to a student's breadth of knowledge and is not specific to a particular occupation or profession.
5. Each course may appear on a maximum of two menus that accept applications (arts and humanities, cultural literacy, life and physical sciences, and social and behavioral sciences).

Social and Behavioral Science Description

Courses within this domain help students examine behavior and interactions among individuals, groups, institutions, and events to understand the complexities of social systems.

Instructions

Complete this form and submit it with a course syllabus and approval chart to the University General Education Council. Faculty submitting an application should be prepared to perform annual assessment for their course. The assessment will be based on the rubric submitted as part of this course application.

Description of Menu Fit

Please describe how your class fits into the Social and Behavioral Sciences Menu (200 words or less).

This course on race/ethnicity, class, and gender in American society provides a broad introduction to “behavior and interactions among individuals, groups (specifically women/men, social classes, and racial/ethnic groups including AAPI, African American, Latinx, Indigenous, and “new European” cultures), institutions (especially the United States government, political parties, and the Christian church), and events (with particular attention to change over time over the course of U.S. history) “to understand the complexities of social systems.”

Course Content

Using your syllabus as evidence, demonstrate that either the majority of course content or the majority of graded student work adheres to the Social and Behavioral Sciences description above (200 words or less).

“This course is an introductory survey of race, class, and gender in American society. The student will obtain a better understanding of these issues and how they impact the individual, small groups, institutions, and societies including: definitions; historical development; their impact on religion, politics, education, the media, the workplace, crime and family life.”

Graded content, including exams (30%), weekly discussions (20%), reading journals which require students to respond to Harriet Jacobs’ Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl and Mary Nakamura’s White Road of Thorns (30%) all engage broadly the topics of racial, ethnic, religious, and gender groups; structures and policies that define, limit, and circumscribe the lives of individuals within those groups; and theoretical/critical approaches to understanding the histories and experiences of diverse cultural, racial/ethnic, and gender groups within American society.

Prerequisites

If the course has prerequisites, provide evidence that the course contributes to a student's breadth of knowledge. Also provide evidence that the course content is not specific to a particular occupation or profession (200 words or less).

- Social and Behavioral Sciences Subject Matter
- A2: Listen to, understand, and critically evaluate rhetorical claims.
- C1: Evaluate widely disparate sources of information and competing evidence to form their own reasoned positions.
- C2: Analyze quantitative data, published writing, or observable phenomena to draw informed conclusions.

Ideally, assessment will occur within one or two exams/assignments. Please indicate which exams or assignments will be used for each performance indicator. Provide assignment prompts if available.

The student will obtain a better understanding of these issues and how they impact the individual, small groups, institutions, and societies including: definitions; historical development; their impact on religion, politics, education, the media, the workplace, crime and family life. It is the intent of the instructor that this class will broaden the student's view of others by building on the Christian definition of who is our brother, sister, and neighbor, promote social activism, and strengthen the Christian attitude of servanthood.

While the course is interdisciplinary in nature, it focuses on interpretation of past practices and introduces the student to the methods of inquiry, significant research findings, and key concepts particular to the discipline of history. COURSE CONTENT AND ASSIGNMENTS

Weekly Meetings on Monday 3pm to 4:20pm

Class will meet weekly from 3pm to 4:20pm in the Administration building, room 321. During this time, students can expect class discussions, brief lectures, opportunities for questions, and project instruction and assistance.

Weekly Online Discussions

In a discussion forum, students post comments to a discussion topic, react to other students' comments, post thoughts and experiences related to the topic, and respond to ideas shared by others in the module. In the online environment, it is essential that all participate. Students are expected to: 1) respond to the discussion question itself with original posts, and 2) respond to other students' postings. In both instances, students should:

- Make references to any relevant course lectures, required readings, and other related materials (such as videos or listening assignments)
- Bring in outside research on the topic being discussed (may use books, articles, reviews, news, etc.)

Reading Quizzes

Weekly reading quizzes will be administered on Canvas. Questions are drawn from the assigned readings (made available by the instructor through Canvas).

Midterm Exam

One week prior to the Midterm Exam, the instructor will provide four broad essay topics. Each student will choose THREE (3) of these for exam completion. Each essay should include an introduction, claim/argument, supporting evidence for the claim, and a conclusion. A brief study guide on essay structure will also be made available at least one week prior to the exam.

Students should study and prepare for their selected topics, but will write the essay during the prescribed exam time.

Final Exam

One week prior to the Final Exam, the instructor will provide four broad essay topics. Each student will choose THREE (3) of these for exam completion. Each essay should include an introduction, claim/argument, supporting evidence for the claim, and a conclusion. A brief study guide on essay structure will also be made available at least one week prior to the exam.

Students should study and prepare for their selected topics, but will write the essay during the prescribed exam time.

Reading Journals (2)

Our class will collaborate together in a "deep reading" of both Harriet Jacob's Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl and Mary Nakamura's White Road of Thorns. Student will keep an online journal of each books, which will include: 1) an concise (yet quality) summary on the book, an examination on the role that critical race theory can play in the book's topic, as well as a personal reflection. The instructor will provide detailed instructions to guide students through the assignment for both books.

Grade Distribution and Methods of Assessment:

Attendance/Participation	10%
Weekly Discussions	20%
Reading Quizzes	10%
Journals (2)	30%
Exams	30%

Grade Scale:

A = 90-100 B = 80-89 C = 70-79 D = 60-69 F = 0-59

An Important Note about Deadlines

Technical problems are not grounds for waivers or changed deadlines, so it is important to work on assignments in a timely manner. If a student begins an assignment late, he/she might not have time to deal with any technical problem that might arise. No late work is accepted in this course. Plan accordingly!

Technical Support

It is the student's responsibility to have an adequate internet connection and a computer sufficient for successfully completing each course requirement. Any technical questions concerning computer hardware or network connections should be directed to Team 55 at 325-674-5555 or team55@acu.edu.

POLICIES & NOTICES

Attendance

Prompt and regular class attendance is considered necessary for satisfactory work. For an online class, a student may be dropped after he/she fails to access the course web site and/or participate in the class for two weeks, and the professor deems the student to be failing. The university attendance policy can be found in the ACU undergraduate catalogue.

Withdrawal

Students are responsible for initiating a Withdrawal from Class form for any class that they have never attended or have stopped attending. If students do not initiate a withdrawal form, one of the following actions may be taken:

- The professor may initiate a withdrawal for a student who has violated the attendance policy as stated in the course syllabus. A "W" or "WF" grade will be assigned at the discretion of the professor; or

- The professor may choose not to initiate a withdrawal form and simply assign a grade of “F” at the end of the semester.

Academic Integrity

ACU expects its students to practice absolute academic integrity. Plagiarism, cheating and other forms of academic dishonesty are not acceptable at ACU. Students should consult the university’s Academic Integrity Policy (located in the Student Guide, found at www.acu.edu/studentlife) for a full description of the expectations of students and procedures for violations of the policy.

Disability Services/ADA Accommodations

ACU provides appropriate accommodations to qualified students in accordance with the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990.

Accommodations are made on a case-by-case basis. Students with special needs are encouraged to contact the Disability Services Coordinator as early as possible. Early notice is required to prepare for and provide special accommodations by the first week of class. It is the student’s responsibility to provide the necessary documentation to the Disability Services Coordinator prior to receiving accommodations.

Changes to the Syllabus

This syllabus is a guide and every attempt is made to provide an accurate overview of the course. However, circumstances and events may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester and may depend, in part, on the progress, needs, and experiences of the students. Changes to the syllabus will be made with advanced notice. I strongly encourage students to make an appointment whenever they feel there is a need to talk about their progress in the course.
