II. Curriculum

1. Degree Plan
   - Explanation of how this course affects degree requirements.
   - This course will be offered as an elective in the masters degree program in conflict resolution and reconciliation. It may be substituted for CONR 610 – Managing Conflict in the Workplace.

2. Justification
   - State the justification for adding this course to the current curriculum. Represent the need.
   - This course will be offered as an elective instead of BIBM 645. BIBM 645 is no longer being offered by the Graduate School of Theology. However, GST plans to make this course available to its students as an elective in place of BIBM 645.

III. Course Design

1. Audience and Course Goal
   - Graduate students in the Conflict Resolution & Reconciliation program and the Graduate School of Theology.

2. Competencies and Measurements
   - Students will be able to identify sources of church conflict and will be equipped to formulate specific actions for conflict management within a church organization.

Course Content

Catalog Description: This course will offer an examination of the causes, arenas, and dynamics of conflict in churches with an introduction to conflict management and practice. A variety of instructional methods, including lectures, case studies, role plays, media, expert resource persons, and personal style instruments will be employed.

Course Synopsis: The course will examine the multiple sources of tension and conflict in churches, the identifiable levels of conflict, the major arenas of conflict, the diverse styles of conflict management, the implications of personality type, leadership styles, and communication protocols for understanding and managing conflicted situations, the applications of systems theory to church conflicts, and a variety of strategies and skills useful in the task of facilitating healing the wounds resulting from conflict.

Course Highlight: Conflict Resolution in the Church is a weekend intensive course focusing on the unique challenges of dealing with conflict and change in the local church. Based on solid principles of biblical conflict resolution, the course examines the causes and dynamics of disputes and offers theological and practical answers. Drawing on current literature and both the experience of the instructor and the students, Conflict Resolution in the Church is a great resource for ministers, church leaders, and church members.

Main Topics:
- A spiritual and scriptural view of conflict in churches
- An understanding of and appeal for peacemakers and peace builders
- Analysis of conflict issues and interests
- A model of healthy church leadership employing proactive and responsive practices in conflict management
- An exploration of resources available for churches and individuals in conflict

Texts, Readings, and Supplements

Required Reading:
○ CONR 617 Course Supplement. If additional reading is required, these materials will be posted online approximately one week before the first class session. Contact the professor at conej@acu.edu for a link to the materials on or after January 8, 2015.

* Required Assessment Instrument
  ○ DiSC® Classic Hard Copy Self-Scorable Assessment (available at the ACU Campus Store).

* Optional Reading:

* Evidence of Christian Perspective

  ○ Teaching Philosophy: Conflict has a constant presence in human existence. Since conflict is a constant in creation, God has a design for our interactions. In fact, every patent or latent conflict is a providentially provided opportunity to rehearse the gospel theme of reconciliation. Although rarely viewed from this perspective, conflict is part of God’s creation and every individual has experience and, to some extent, expertise in managing it. The key to learning is understanding, not information transfer. Thus, every individual – professor and students – will stand on equal ground to question, discuss, and collaborate in the exploration of this important topic.

  ○ Policy Regarding Questionable Materials: Occasionally, your professor may include readings or audio-visual materials in his courses that some individuals might deem offensive or questionable. The selection of activities, readings, and media are thoughtfully and prayerfully made. The decision to include such materials is made after careful consideration of the following:
    ○ Does the material simulate or portray actual life experience that enhances the learning potential of this course?
    ○ Does the material deliver information or experience in a manner that does not overly exaggerate or exploit the portrayal?
    ○ Are there other, less objectionable, materials that could be employed to provide an equal or superior learning experience?

When such questionable materials are employed, every effort is made to prepare students for exposure to the materials and to provide an appropriate advisory statement.
• Scripture Related to Course Content:

“For Christ’s love compels us, because we are convinced that one died for all, and therefore all died. And he died for all, that those who love should no longer live for themselves but for him who died for them and was raised again.

“So from now on we regard no one from a worldly point of view. Though we once regarded Christ in this way, we do so no longer. Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come! All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation: that God was reconciling the world to himself in Christ, not counting men’s sins against them. And he has committed to us the message of reconciliation. We are therefore Christ’s ambassadors, as though God was making his appeal through us. We implore you on God’s behalf: Be reconciled to God. God made him who has no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. As God’s fellow workers we urge you not to receive God’s grace in vain.” 2 Corinthians 5:14 – 6:1.

Overall Outcome and Competencies

• Course Learning Outcome/Goal Statement: Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to identify and analyze the sources and intricacies of conflict within a church. Further, students will be equipped to formulate and evaluate effective, spiritual conflict management practices.

• Course Competencies: Upon successful completion of this course, students will exhibit competence in the following areas, as defined and measured below.

Course Policies

- Late Assignments: All work is due on the dates designated in this syllabus. No assignments will be accepted after the due date absent a grant of mercy from the professor. Late assignments accepted by the professor may be subject to a reduction in grade.

- “Incomplete” Grades: Grades of “Incomplete” and “Incomplete – Passing” will not be granted in this course except in the rare cases of serious illness, death of a family member, or a similar emergency. In such cases, an agreement must be negotiated with the professor and documented in a written course completion statement.

- Failure to Submit Assignments: Failure to submit any assignment will automatically result in a grade of no better than "C" for the course.

- Attendance: This course meets on two weekends. Your professor believes that your contributions to the course, along with those of your classmates and your professor, are an essential element of your successful learning. Because of the course’s intensive nature, attendance will be closely monitored. Students who miss any class session will be responsible for the material covered in that session. Any student who misses eight (8) hours of class meetings will forfeit one letter grade in the course. For periods of time less than eight (8) hours, the professor may make reductions in the class participation score, depending on the circumstance. Any student who misses more than eight (8) hours of class meetings may be unilaterally dropped from the course by the professor.

- ADA Compliance Statement: Abilene Christian University is dedicated to removing barriers and opening access for students with disabilities in compliance with ADA and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. The Alpha Scholars Program facilitates disability accommodations in cooperation with instructors. In order to receive accommodations, you must be registered with the Alpha Scholars Program, and you must complete a specific request for each class in which you need accommodations. If you have a documented disability and wish to discuss academic accommodations, please call the Alpha Scholars Program office directly at 325-674-2667.

Academic Integrity Policy

Rationale for Policy
The most powerful motive for integrity and truthfulness comes from one’s desire to imitate God’s nature in our lives. As a community of Christian students and scholars, we are each responsible to expect behaviors from each other consistent with the nature of God, to respect the community, and to respect ourselves.

Expectations of academic honesty and integrity extend to both university employees and students. Every member of the community is responsible for protecting the integrity of learning, scholarship, and research. Being responsible requires action against violations in spite of peer pressure, loyalty, or compassion. Individuals must take responsibility for their own conduct and discourage misconduct by others.

Definition of Academic Integrity
Academic integrity is defined as academic work completed as assigned for each class by the individual or group responsible for the work. Academic work includes but is not limited to reading assignments, homework assignments, assessments, examinations and tests, attendance at required out-of-class activities, written or oral presentations, and laboratory experiments and research.

Violations of academic integrity and other forms of cheating involve the intention to deceive or mislead or misrepresent and therefore, are a form of lying. Specific examples of academic dishonesty in this course include, but are not limited to, the following:
- Submitting for credit, in whole or in part, the work of others.
- Receiving, giving, or using unauthorized aid on an examination.
- Failure to give credit to sources used in a work in an attempt to present the work as one’s own.
- Submission of paper(s) or project(s) obtained from any source, such as a friend, research service, or club paper file, as one’s own.
- Allowing other members of a group to provide a disproportionate fraction of a required group project or activity.
- Claiming credit for an attendance or service activity without attending or performing the activity.
- Written or oral presentation of falsified materials and facts, including but not limited to the results of interviews, laboratory experiments, and field-based research.

Consequences of Breach
Academic dishonesty may result in, but is not limited to, the following:
- A first offense will result in a grade reduction (lowering the grade on the assignment in which academic dishonesty occurred and/or assigning an F for the final course grade).
• Should you be permitted to remain in the class after being found in violation of the academic integrity policy, you may also be required to retake the exam or an alternate exam, resubmit the course work, or complete an alternate assignment. Any such makeup work may be graded independently or averaged with the penalized grade for the original dishonest work. Failure to comply with such requirements constitutes a second violation.

• A second violation in a class will result in an automatic F in the course.

• All instances of academic dishonesty will be reported to Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Dean of Students in the Student Life Office.

Appeal Process
If you would like to appeal a decision, then please follow this link to learn about how to file an appeal: http://www.acu.edu/campusoffices/studentlife/judicialDocuments/AcademicIntegrityPolicy.pdf

• Plagiarism: Plagiarism is defined as use of intellectual material produced by another person without acknowledging its source. For example:
  o Wholesale copying of passages from works of others into an assignment, paper, discussion posting, thesis or dissertation without acknowledgment.
  o Using the views, opinions, or insights of another without acknowledgment.
  o Paraphrasing another person’s characteristic or original phraseology, metaphor, or other literary device without acknowledgment.

   The professor monitors student work for evidence of plagiarism. Plagiarism is treated as a violation of academic integrity.

Assignments and Grading Rubrics

• The Heart of a Peacemaker – Parts 1 and 2: This is a graduate course in conflict resolution with a focus on the church setting. An essential skill in this quest for peace is identifying and demonstrating an understanding of the issues forming a particular matter. Five books constitute the reading requirements for this course. The first 3 will be the focus of Part 1 of this assignment (Steinke’s Congregational Leadership, Susak’s Firestorm, and Ury’s The Power of a Positive No). The last 2 will be the focus of Part 2 of this assignment (Steinke’s Healthy Congregations and Arbinger Institute’s Leadership and Self-Deception). Part 1 of this assignment is due on Thursday, January 15, 2015 at 1:00 p.m. – the first meeting period of the first weekend. Part 2 of this assignment is due on Thursday, February 12, 2015 at 1:00 p.m. – the first meeting period of the second weekend.

   For each of the respective Parts, the student should identify three central themes from each assigned book for that Part. On Part 1, the student does not need to include the book selected for the Book Synopsis (below) as part of this assignment.
   o Each student should identify three central themes from each book assigned.
   o For each theme, the student should write a brief paragraph (175 to 250 words) that explains why the theme is important within the context of church conflict resolution.
   o The student should be prepared to discuss and defend his/her selection in class discussion.

• Book Synopsis: Each student should write a synopsis of either Susek’s Firestorm or Steinke’s Congregational Leadership in Anxious Times. This assignment is due on Monday, January 20, 2015 at 11:59 p.m.
  - The synopsis should be 1,400 to 2,100 words. Format: one inch (1”) margins with 1.5 line spacing. Type preference is Times New Roman or Arial (12 pica).
  - The synopsis should be submitted in Word (.doc or .docx) or Pages (.pages) format via email to copej@acu.edu.
  - Save and submit your document as “[last name][first initial] Synopsis.” Example: “CopeJ Synopsis.”
  - Be certain to include your full name in the heading of the document.
  - A synopsis is a digested version of the contents of the book, i.e., a boiled down summary of the book.
  - After the summary, give your own personal response to the book’s per-spec-tives on how the book will impact your life and, if applicable, your ministry in your local congregation. This is not a cri-tique, but a reflection of the book’s content from the context of your experience.

- Reflection on Personal Assessments: Each student should write a reflection on the results of his or her personal assessments (the DiSC® and the IIAll Conflict Survey, along with other assessments administered during the course). This assignment is due on Monday, February 23, 2015 at 11:59 p.m.
  - The reflection should be 1,400 to 1,750 words. Format: one inch (1”) margins with 1.5 line spacing. Type preference is Times New Roman or Arial (12 pica).
  - The reflection should be submitted in Word (.doc or .docx) or Pages (.pages) format via email to copej@acu.edu.
  - Save and submit your document as “[last name][first initial] Reflection.” Example: “Copej Reflection.”
  - Be certain to include your full name in the heading of the document.
  - The reflection should provide a personal perspective on the results of your assessment instruments. Generally, these assessments do not assign positive or negative values to various traits and characteristics. You may want to discuss how the results coincide or differ from your personal self-image. Spend a portion of the reflection thinking through the implications of the results. For example, if you are to be actively involved as a church peacemaker, what traits or characteristics would be most useful to you? Or what traits and characteristics need to be overcome?
  - God made each of us to be unique. Celebrate your uniqueness as you explore this topic and cast a vision for your potential.

- Conflict Case Study: Each student should write a case study based on an actual church conflict situation (either in their own or some other church). If confidentiality is an issue, you may change some details. Unless you agree to have your case study discussed in class, all details will remain confidential with the professor. This assignment is due on Wednesday, February 11, 2015 at 11:59 p.m.
  - The case study should be 2,100 to 2,800 words. Format: one inch (1") margins with 1.5 line spacing. Type preference is Times New Roman or Arial (12 pica).
  - The case study should be submitted in Word (.doc or .docx) or Pages (.pages) format via email to copej@acu.edu.
  - Save and submit your document as “[last name][first initial] Case Study.”
    Example: “CopeJ Case Study.”
  - Be certain to include your full name in the heading of the document.
  - The Case Study should include the following:
    One of the following statements at the beginning of your case study:
    - “I give my permission to have my Case Study discussed in class.”
    - “I do not give my permission to have my Case Study discussed in class.”
    A brief description of the context of the conflict (approximately 350 words).
    - The general identity (size, type, style) and context (location, social setting, cultural environment) of the congregation.
    - The person(s) involved in the immediate problem.
• The extent of your involvement, if any, in the case (your role in the church/in the case, relationship to other parties involved).
• Any significant statements (verbal comments) or actions (decisions, behaviors, moves) that precipitated, ignited, or escalated the situation.
• Any identifiable groups or polarities involved in the situation.

A statement of the pertinent background of the conflict (approximately 350 words).
• Any previous incidents related to this problem or situation.
• Any previous flare-ups involving these same persons or groups.
• Previous reactions or attempted solutions and their results
• Any relationship between this situation and the congregation's overall story or track record

Your analysis of the dynamics of the problem(s) presented in the case (approximately 700 words).
• From your other studies and experience, what theories of conflict, communication, or family systems are present in the conflict?
• Is a significant level of self-differentiation evident among any of the participants? If so, in whom?
• What patterns of behavior are evident in the previous generations of leaders and members in this congregation? Are any of these evident in this situation?
• What emotional triangles exist? Who are the chronic or repeat participants in these triangles? Which triangles appear to be at the core of the conflict?
• What communications dynamics (personal or corporate) are involved?
• What personal type or style differences (personality, leadership, conflict, communication, etc.) are involved?
• What power dynamics (personal, structural, balance, distribution) are involved?
• What parts of the problem are caused by "process" breakdowns?
• What insights emerged from applying the diagnostic instruments used in the class (the Alban Institute tools, the scales of the Congregational Systems Inventory, etc.)?
• What level(s) of conflict (1, 2, 3, 4, 5) is evident in this situation?

Any theological dimensions, themes, or issues involved in the case (approximately 350 words).
• What biblical issues or scriptural themes are involved in the case?
• What scriptures or biblical themes are involved in the conflict?
• What other biblical concepts should be involved in an intervention/mediation?

A description of the intervention which has been/could be attempted by you or someone else (approximately 700 words).
• What options exist for responding to the situation?
• Should an outside consultant/mediator be contacted?
Who should take initiative and what should they do?
What positive steps could you or other leaders and members take?
If the case is about events in the past, what could have been done differently?

Your evaluation of your experience as a participant or observer in the case, including any lessons learned that will guide your ministry in the future (approximately 250 words).

- What would you do the same?
- What would you do differently?
- What additional knowledge or skills would you need in order to handle this kind of case better next time?

Note: Only pertinent dimensions of the case should appear in your paper.

- Conflict Management Model: Each student will produce a final project consisting of a congregational conflict management model describing how you would propose to manage conflict in your congregation (present or future). The project will be due on Monday, March 23, 2015 at 11:59 p.m. This statement should meet the following criteria:
  - The paper should be approximately 1,200 to 1,800 words (up to 2,000 words accepted without penalty), typed and single spaced, and ready for distribution to present in the future to church leaders and members.
- The paper should apply the theories and strategies discovered in the course, plus any additional ideas of your own.
- The paper should be written with both preventive (future) and curative (present) dimensions in mind.
- The paper should include any central biblical/theological passages or instructions that you propose to serve as anchors for conduct in the church. (Matthew 18, Romans 14, Ephesians 4, Philippians 2 could be useful examples.)
- The paper should include any specific ground rules you would propose for (a) establishing standards for appropriate conduct among leaders, between leaders and members, and among members in conflict situations, (b) for structuring group process (information-sharing, decision-making, communication, participation) in various contexts (elders meetings, deacons meetings, congregational meetings, committee meetings), and (c) for ensuring accountability among leaders and between leaders and members.
- The paper should include specific guidelines for when and how third-party mediation should be used.
- Consider formatting the paper as a proposed policy manual for use in your church or as an official resolution of the elders and ministers of your church, stating their specific strategies for dealing with conflict in the congregation.

M.A. in Conflict Resolution and Reconciliation
Degree Plan (Revised 2014)

Foundational Course

1. CONR 605 – Negotiation and Mediation (6 credit hours)

   Comprehensive study of the conceptual and interpersonal skills required to engage in effective negotiation and mediation. Topics include analysis of conflict, negotiation and mediation planning, effective negotiation and mediation skills and process, impasse resolution, and agreement documentation. Emphasis on skill development and strategic approach to creating opportunity for agreement.

   CONR 605 is the prerequisite for all other courses in the degree and is offered during each of the six course sessions scheduled throughout the year. All other courses are offered in a "carousel" arrangement that allows students to take them in any sequence after CONR 605 has been completed.

Residency Session

Each student is required to participate in a one-week residency session where additional skills training and practice occur. Students in the masters degree program may attend the Residency Session after successful completion of CONR 605. Residency Sessions are scheduled for January and June of each year.

Carousel Courses

2. CONR 601 – Conflict Theory and Communication (3 credit hours)

   Introduces essential theories of conflict and communication. Provides advanced opportunities to analyze case studies, critique basic assumptions of conflict theories, explore various communication theories within the context of conflict resolution, and model appropriate behavior in conflict scenarios.

3. CONR 610 – Managing Conflict in the Workplace (3 credit hours)

   Provides students with opportunities to develop skills in identifying the signs and root causes of friction, anger, violence, and conflict in the work environment.

3. CONR 615 – Managing Conflict in Schools (3 credit hours)

Provides a basic understanding of the nature and management of conflict in schools. Students will learn to identify and apply appropriate strategies, processes and interpersonal skills in a wide range of contextual conflicts involving students, teachers, administration and parents. (CONR 615 is available to MACRR students by request for course substitution. However, the course is included as an element in the conflict resolution core courses offered in online Masters of Education programs.)

OR

3. CONR 617 – Conflict Resolution in the Church (3 credit hours)

This course will offer an examination of the causes, arenas, and dynamics of conflict in churches with an introduction to conflict management and practice. A variety of instructional methods, including lectures, case studies, role-plays, media, expert resource persons, and personal style instruments will be employed. (CONR 617 is not offered online and made available to MACRR students by request for course substitution.)

4. CONR 630 – Advanced Mediation Marital Disputes (3 credit hours)

Applies the concepts of negotiation and mediation to the resolution of conflicts that arise during and after the termination of a marital relationship. Addresses issues of property distribution, child custody, and future relationship.

5. MGMT 636 – Organizational Behavior (3 credit hours)

Presents individual, group, and organizational variables that inhibit or facilitate effective organizational functioning.

6. CONR 612 – Conflict Management Systems Design (3 credit hours)

Provides a framework for understanding organizational conflict prevention and resolution systems. Analysis of case studies and practical application featured throughout the course.
7. CONR 635 – Identity, Culture and Conflict (3 credit hours)

Examines self and social contexts where people have incompatible goals, assumptions, logics and behaviors because of cultural differences. Course addresses cultural conflict from differences in cultural patterns, variables, problem perspectives of self and identity, and race, gender, and class. Intercultural competence is the primary strategy for managing cultural conflict.

8. CONR 637 – Dispute Resolution and the Legal System (3 credit hours)

Explores the dispute resolution process in a variety of cultures and provides context to its application in legal systems. Provides students with an overview of topics such as the negotiation, mediation, arbitration, and litigation.

9. CONR 638 – Ethics and Conflict Resolution (3 credit hours)

Prepare students to reach a higher critical and reflective consciousness of the relationship of ethics to decision-making and problem-solving in conflict resolution.

Practicum

Students are required to complete 6 credit hours in a practicum environment. Options include the completion of two 3-credit hour practica, each requiring a minimum of 125 hours of participation, or one 3-credit hour practicum, requiring a minimum of 125 hours of participation and successful completion of CONR 645 (see item 12 below).

12. CONR 645 - Practical Skills and Theory in Conflict Resolution (3 credit hours)

Explores higher levels of involvement in conflict and its resolution. CONR 645 is delivered face-to-face as an alternative to 3 credit hours of practicum participation.

RE: New Course Application, CONR 617: Conflict Resolution in the Church

Dear Colleagues:

I have been in discussion with Joe L. Cope, associate professor in the Duncum Center for Conflict Resolution, regarding the development of a new course, CONR 617: Conflict Resolution in the Church.

Our course, BIBM 645: Managing Conflict in Churches, is not presently being offered through the Graduate School of Theology. I am aware that there are similarities and some overlap of content between our course and the proposed CONR 617.

Because BIBM 645 has not been available, I have encouraged GST students to consider CONR 617 (previously offered as CONR 640, a special topics course) as an elective in appropriate cases and will continue to do so.

I have no reservations about the development of CONR 617 and would, with consideration given to other university, college, and graduate policies, endorse its approval.

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Timothy R. Sensing, D.Min, Ph.D.

Re: Review of CONR617.01: Conflict Resolution in the Church

Dear Dr. Cope,

Thank you for the submission of CONR617.01: Conflict Resolution in the Church. I reviewed the syllabus based on the ACU Syllabus Guidelines. This is an exceptionally well-developed syllabus in which you have aligned the course objectives, competencies, instructional strategies and resources. I especially like your clear instructions and the thorough rubrics to grade student work. You describe elements of your course so clearly that it does not seem to leave much room for misunderstanding.

Here are a few minor things I noticed:

• Usually course syllabi include university, school and department missions. I did not see them in this draft.

• Quite a number of words in the course content sections have unnecessary hyphens in them (such as “lec-tures” and “manage-ment”). I wonder if it is because the text has been converted or copied from another format or location, which could result in having such hyphens. You might want to fix them.

• In the "Grading Criteria" section, the percentages are not aligned. You might want to align them, for instance, by using a table whose cells could help with the alignment.

• Does "92-100" in your grading section refer to percentage or raw score?

• You have several calendar parts, divided by type of activities. I wonder if you’d consider using a matrix format, holding the dates constant, while having one column for reading, one column for assignment, and another column for lecture outlines, etc. I personally found that this is easier for students to have an overview of various activities to be due before a certain date.

Again, this is an outstanding syllabus, and all such suggestions are rather minor. Please adjust as needed if you choose to. We would like to thank you for allowing the Adams Center team to review your course application. Congratulations on having developed such an exemplary syllabus.
